TRY FILM OPERATOR

BRUTAL MURDER IS THE CHARGE

ST. GEORGE, Staten Island, May 19.—In a little courtroom in which indignant, angry citizens of Staten Island were first excluded, Harry Hoffman, a motion picture operator, went on trial today, charged with the brutal murder of Mrs. Maude Bauer, a young mother.

Handcuffed to two deputies, Hoffman was brought into court, looking pale and worried as he glanced about him into hostile faces. He is accused of attacking Mrs. Bauer, after offering her a lift in his sedan, March 25, and of shooting her to death when she refused his advances.

Examination of talesmen brought out the fact that the prisoner's past record has been bad, for each prospective juror was asked if he would hold this against the accused and several who said they would were peremptorily challenged.

QUINN SAYS JUSTICE DONE

Commander of Legion Declares Great Work Remains to Care for Disabled.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 19.—"After five years of effort during which the American people have been wholeheartedly with us, justice has been done the veteran of the world war," declared John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, when informed this afternoon that the senate had voted to override the president's veto and the bonus.

"We will not stop to gloat in triumph over the passage of the bonus for greatwork still remains for the legion to do in seeing that our disabled buddies are taken care of and that the needs of the widows and children of those who fell in battle are met."

COOLIDGE BACK TO ROOMS

Returns to White House to Rest. His Cold Still Troubling Him.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Coolidge spent a very brief time at his desk today and returned to the white house to rest, his cold still troubling him.

He transacted some business but all engagements were called off, Mr. Coolidge seeing only Secretaries Hughes and Weeks and some senators he called in to talk about the bonus.

Weeks urged the president to take the army's chlorine gas treatment for his cold, saying that he intended to take it himself. A number of government officials who have undergone the treatment have pronounced it very beneficial for stubborn colds.

Weeks said he found the president standing out behind his office in the sun when he arrived.

RELEASES ALL PLEDGES

Hiram Johnson Indicates He Has Freed All Delegates Promised to Vote for Him.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Senator Hiram Johnosn today indicated he had released all delegates pledged to vote for him at the republican national convention next month.

"I have written delegates in South Dakota and some from other states releasing them from all obligations to me at the Cleveland convention," Johnosn announced.

According to republican figures, Johnson had only two delegates pledged to him except the thirteen in South Dakota. These were two in Illinois.

PASSENGER RESCUED IN SINKING BALLOON

LONDON, May 19.—A dramatic rescue of a passenger who jumped from a sinking balloon into the sea occurred Sunday in the Solent, off the Isle of Wight.

M. Boitard started from St. Cloud Saturday at 5 p. m. with a pilot in a balloon. They lost their bearings and found themselves over the Solent with their gas leaking. They threw out ballast, but as the balloon continued to sink Boitard jumped into the sea.

A man on shore saw him swimming and went to his rescue, only to find that the boat was leaking and could merely support Boitard in the water. Meanwhile a mortorist saw them in the water and motored to the coast guard station which effected a rescue. The balloon with its pilot landed safely in the New forest.

GIRL REWINS SUIT IN BREACH OF PROMISE

DETROIT, May 19. — Penelope Papanastasopoulos, nineteen year old "picture bride," was awarded a judgment of $20,000 by a jury in circuit court at the conclusion of the retrial of her $50,000 breach of promise suit against Zissis Zissis, wealthy furrier. At a previous trial a year ago, she was given a judgment of $15,000, but a new hearing was granted when counsel for Zissis presented affidavits attacking the girl's reputation.

Penelope charged that Zissis after seeing her picture, had her brought from Athens, Greece to Detroit three years ago to become his bride and the refused to marry her.

Counsel for the furrier charged that the suit was based on a conspiracy, engineered by Penelope's brother, Agislaos Papanastasopoulos, with whom she has been living. The brother was an employe at the fur store when Zissis first saw the girl's picture.

OKLAHOMA PLAYS THE HOST

National Editorial Association Guests of State for a Week—Then to Mexico City.

PONCA CITY, Ok., May 19.—Oklahoma was the host to the national editorial association today.

Three hundred editors from all parts of the country were here for a week's stay before going on to Mexico City.

Old Oklahoma frontier days were recalled to the editors in the rodeo and roundup at the Miller Brothers 101 Ranch near here; while modern Oklahoma was demonstrated by the Marland Oil committee which "shot" an oil well on its holdings.

Hundreds of Oklahoma Indians and representatives of a dozen out of state tribes participated in the Indian pageant as a feature of the closing session of the roundup.

The visitors were scheduled to leave here today for Tulsa where they will spend Tuesday in inspection of the Cosden Oil company properties and other attractions in the "oil capitol of the world."

IOWANS TO PUSH THEIR MEN

DES MOINES, Ia., May 19.—Iowa republicans will vigorously push the candidacy of Congressman L. J. Dickinson, who was endorsed by the state republican convention in March as Iowa's choice for the vice presidency, it was announced by Senator Addison M. Parker, here today.

Parker is campaign manager for President Coolidge in this state.

The name of Congressman Dickinson will be presented to the Cleveland convention next month as the middle west's choice for Coolidge's running mate, Parker said.

Dickinson has represented the tenth Iowa district in the lower house for the last three sessions and is the leader of the middle western group in congress.

RADIO FANS ARE ANXIOUS

Effort to Be Made at London to Broadcast the Song of a Nightingale.

LONDON, May 19.—Hundreds of thousands of radio fans are awaiting the result of tonight's effort to broadcast the song of a nightingale.

The most elaborate arrangements have been made to lure a nightingale into a lonely valley in the Surrey hills from which its song will be broadcast with the aid of a microphone.

It is hoped that a full moon and a few soft notes on a cello will encourage the feathered songster to perform.

BILLY SUNDAY IMPROVED

Operation May Not Be Necessary, Dr. Bumpus of the Clinic at Rochester Announces.

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 19.—The condition of "Billy" Sunday is improved and an operation probably will not be necessary, Dr. H. C. Bumpus of Mayo clinic, announced late today. He would not give the clinic diagnosis, but the evangelist is known to be suffering from kidney trouble.

LIZARDS USED IN TRIMMING DRESSES

PARIS, May 19.—Lizards have been lifted from their lowly estate into an important accessory of feminine wear and the frantic search of dressmakers for new materials is sending them as far afield as the deserts. Lizard skins have entirely dethroned last year's frog skins for women's wear, while lizard hats, lizard gloves and lizard dress trimmings are popular to such an extent that the depopulation of the Sahara seems imminent.

Simultaneously other lowly creatures have invaded the fashion realm.

Not mentioning rabbits, which now furnish 90 per cent of all furs used by dressmakers and the ordinary domestic hen, which furnishes feathers for embroideries of modern capes and goatskins which are used widely for cloaks and hats, such exotic creatures as fireflies, grass snakes and butterflies are all yielding their quota to the inexorable maw of the prevailing mode in dress.

With the season well launched, approximately 40,000 Americans are enjoying the traditional festivities.

Pavlowa's dancing is attracting society while crowds are attending Ganna Walska's Champs Theater. But, curiously enough the biggest current attractions are Cories and Peggy, two American dancers now appearing at Rectors who have virtually taken the town by storm. It is necessary to go abroad in order to be discovered by their own countrymen.

DOG SAVES CHILDREN IN FIGHT WITH SNAKE

KALAMAZOO, Mich., May 19.—The family of Herbert Roder of Comstock is anxiously awaiting the recovery of Hector, a faithful dog, from wounds he suffered in saving his master's three small children from a five-foot rattlesnake.

The children, Horace, Grace and Gerhardt, were playing at Knight's park, on an island in the Kalamazoo river, when they were suddenly confronted by the snake. The dog, a cross between an Irish terrier and a police dog, rushed to battle and finally killed the snake, but not before he had been bitten seriously.

Fort Riley Soldiers Enroute.

WYMORE, Neb., May 19.—Four hundred men and two hundred fifty horses, together with ten heavy cannons and several wagons and other paraphernalia and a hospital corps forming battery A of the Ninth field artillery arrived in Wymore Sunday morning and camped at Arbor State park. The soldiers are under command of Capt. J. B. White and J. Palmer and are marching from Fort Riley, Kas., to Lincoln for drill work.

Painter of the White House.

World's Work: Howard Chandler Christy painted two portraits of the late President Harding. One pictured him in his study in the white house, the other on board the Leviathan. Mr. Christy began to be known as the painter of the white house. Now he has done the first portraits ever painted of the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The distinction of painting the first portrait of a president of the United States comes to few, and the artist prepared to study, to analyze every gesture and phase of his subject's personality, as manifested in his appearance, with the greatest care before putting brush to canvas. Christy spent four weeks at the white house living in intimate personal contact with Mr. Coolidge and his family. Once he felt that he knew the personality of the president sufficiently well to interpret it successfully in oils, he set to work, and not before. But once started he worked four hours a day for three weeks. And sometimes there were two sittings a day.

The president was a good sitter if not precisely cheerful during the long and trying sessions. He was very serious about it. Sitting in the old leather chair that has rested so many of his predecessors, he assumed a characteristic pose and held it—for hours. Left leg crossed over right, one hand clutching it tightly while the other grasped the arm of the chair, silent and—felicitous detail to the artist—never making a suggestion, he bore the ordeal, for it is an ordeal, stocially. Occasionally he would ask how much longer he much pose, or somewhat anxiously, if he was being "got."

When the portrait began to take shape he called in an old friend. He wanted criticism, not tactfully conventional comment. He was told that the portrait was an excellent likeness; not only that, it showed the qualities the public thinks of as Coolidge's. Quite strength, reserve, determination, and steadfast purpose.

Like the president, Mrs. Coolidge too, was a good sitter, but to her every minute spent before the easel was amusing. Not so Rob Roy, the collie. He was bored to tears and showed it. It was ten days before he would pose at all and then he did so only under protest for—whisper it—interested friends held him. But the completed portrait is a beauiful piece of work and the charm of the subject carries amazingly well from the canvas to every one who sees it.

MANY SNOWSTORMS A YEAR.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., (By mail.)—It is reported from the town of North Hudson in Essex county that there were more snow storms during April than in any of the winter months in that section of the Adirondacks. There was a total of thirty-eight snow storms in the township since last autumn.

Isaac Kahn Fears Something Has Happened to Two Women at Delhi, India.

OMAHA, May 19.—Because four months have passed since he has heard from his two daughters, Mrs. K. D. Shastri and Miss Mabel Kahn, residents of Delhi, Isaac Kohn fears something serious has happened and he appealed to the state department at Washington to aid him in obtaining information today.

Mrs. Shastri is the wife of a famous Hindoo philosopher. She was formerly Miss Minnie Jensen, an adopted daughter of Kahn. Because of the exalted position of Shastri, Kahn fears that any popular uprising among the natives might mean harm to his daughters. Mabel Kahn is on a visit to her foster sister in Delhi.

CITY OF CHICAGO HAS PEPPY ART SCANDAL

CHICAGO, May 19.—Chicago has an art scandal.

The authorities are investigating charges that works of art sold here at gabulous prices are mere imitations.

One arrest has been made and prosecutions may extend to New York. Boston and other eastern cities, it was said Sunday.

The charge that opened the investigation was preferred by H. M. Kitchell, an artist of Providence, R. I. He caused the arrest of Bernard Devine, art critic and salesman, charging him with forgery.

Devine was arrested. He denied the charge and said he was being prosecuted and persecuted as a result of a plot to discredit him because he started last fall against Prof. Alfred Chatain. This suit, which brought in the sum of $50,000, charged a group of swindlers had sold forged paintings in New York, Chicago and other cities, reaping hundreds of thousands of dollars. Devine named Chatain as one of this group.

PLEASANTDALE WINS FROM MALCOLM NINE

WASHINGTON, May 19.—In a letter to H. E. Sackett, chairman of the republican state committee at Beatrice, Neb., Senator Norris to-appointed censors of the republican party" to prevent his name from going on the official ballot. Norris suggests that Sackett call a state primary "to consider my recall" as the republican candidate for senator. Norris pledged he would tender his resignation as a candidate for the senate if a majority in the primary voted against him.

LaFollette's Past.

Wichita Eagle: Should any further reward ever come to Senator La Follette, it ought to be accounted somewhat in the nature of a return for some of the things which he has suffered. He has tirelessly fought the interests. While he has been doing it most of the newspaper press of the country has incessantly abused and belittled him. The interests and their hirelings have dogged his steps with shadowing detectives, corps of which are maintained by several of the monopolies he has opposed. They have attempted to corrupt even his house servants to report upon him. Spies have rifled his private and official mail. He never stopped fighting, however, and none of the revelations at Washington show him dickering with magnates or accepting their "loans," or telegraphing tips to them, or eating their dinners or grinning to their newspaper lackeys. There must be to La Follette, just at this moment, much gratification in that, and yet it does look as though there was more than just gratification coming to him.

Their Occupation.

K. C. Star: A wild yelling caused a motorist in the Rumpus Ridge region to hasten around the next bend in the road. He beheld a pack of children, composed of parts of the Johnson, Giggery and Yawkey families, jumping up and down and beating their bosoms with their clenched fists, while they howled with great vigor.

"What's the matter?" asked the traveler. "Are you in trouble?"

"No!" they shouted in unison. "We're looking for it."

A Real Grudge.

Legion Weekly—Newspaper Man: "You're sure this scrap between the Battling Kid and Knockout Bangs is a real grudge fight?"

Promoter: "Yup—Bang's wife divorced him and married the Kid."

"Oh, Knockout intends to take it out on the Kid?"

"Naw,—Knockout will try to defend himself."

Cheerful Roommate.

Legion Weekly—"Oh, William!" gasped Mrs. Bargaine. "I've picked up the most wonderful antique! The clerk guaranteed it to be the bed Queen Elizabeth died in! I'll put it your room, dear."

"Great Scott!" hollowed her husband in alarm. "Have they removed the body?"

WOMAN'S BRIDE REMAINS TRUE

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—"I will stick by him thru this whole affair."

And thus Bertha Jones Meyers, twenty-one the fifteen month's bride of Lillian Huffman, thirty-six, alias Harry Meyers, came to the defense of her "woman husband" when the latter appeared before Judge Stanley Orr in police court today on a charge of being a suspicious character.

The bride looked longingly, half tearfully at the marriage license when it was presented as evidence. She refused to recognize her "husband" as a woman.

"I still like him and I will stick by him thru this whole affair," she said.

Police are baffled by the fact that altho the "woman husband" spent five days living with "his" wife, Mrs. "Meyers" didn't discover her "husband" was a woman.

Despite the fact that her sex had been revealed, Lillian appeared in court in men's clothes. She has been posing as a man for the last fifteen years, she told police.

"I could earn more money that way" she explained, "and I loved the thrill."

Following the hearing before Judge Orr, the "woman husband" was taken before alienists who will test her sanity.

LAUNCH DRIVE TO CLEAR SLATE

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Administration leaders today launched a final drive to clear the legislative slate for adjournment of congress by June 7.

The bonus bill will be disposed of finally by the senate today or tomorrow after which the last of the appropriation bills, the McNary Haugen bill and possibly the Good ing long and short haul bill will be taken up. The tax conferees are expected to report back by the end of the week, putting the tax bill to be sent to the white house.

In the House the Barkley bill to abolish the railroad labor board will get consideration today and tomorrow the McNary-Haugen bill will get the right of way, with a vote due Saturday. The house slate will then be clean except for a proposed bill to authorize increase in the cruiser strength of the navy.

The investigations are apidly dwindling in number, only two still running regularly in the senate and one in the house. The senate inquiries are the Daugherty investigation and the probe of the election of Senator Mayfield of Texas. The investigation of alleged land frauds in Texas runs intermittently. The house shipping board investigation has only commenced.

OLD MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—The twenty-three year old mystery of the disappearance of the Pacific Mail liner Rio Janeiro may be solved in dredging operations in progress in the Golden Gate shipping officials said today.

Some persons current carried the vessel away and its hull was never located.

It was the government dredger Chief working in the Golden Gate recognized what seemed to be portholes underneath rocks. Later investigation later proved that the rocks might be the hull of a ship, probably the Rio. Its plates are being made to send down divers.

WOMEN LEAD IN RIOTING

Wives of Ruhr Miners Are Growing Desperate.

STRIKERS REFUSE THE AWARD

Bitterness, Suffering and Hunger Among Families.

Storm City Hall Demanding Issuing of Rations and at One Point Place Mines in Danger of Flooding.

BERLIN, May 19.—Desperation has seized the striking miners of the Ruhr. Their women folks are showing the way to violence.

The strikers refused to accept an arbitration award which lengthens their hours; the mine owners, meeting at Essen, accepted the arbitration. The government according to custom, has no choice but to declare the award binding.

Tremendous bitterness, suffering and hunger among the strikers and their families makes it seem doubtful, however, that the government's declaration will have any effect.

Wives of the miners took the initiative in sabotage. At Gelsenkirchen, angry women stormed the city hall, demanding issuance of rations.

Rioting, led by miner's wives, broke out at Rotthausen and police with drawn batons had to intervene.

In the mines of Hattingen, women rolled up their sleeves, seized rakes and picks and hauled fires from the pump furnaces, so that the mines are in great danger of being flooded. They brandished heated rakes in the face of men scabs, driving the latter from the mines.

BIG HAUL FOR POLICE

Thirty Men, 250 Barrels of Beer, Ten Motor Trucks and Seven Automobiles Seized.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Two hundred and fifty barrels of beer valued at around $20,000, ten motor trucks, seven automobiles, and thirty men, including two alleged bear runner leaders, fell into the hands of police today in an early morning raid.

The raid was made on the Seiben Brewery, on the northwest side by Assistant Superintendent of Police Zimmer and twenty-five policemen.

Zimmer announced that the captives include Johnny Torrio and Dean O'Bannion, said to be millionaire beer syndicate leaders, both of whom have been in constant conflict with police since prohibition.

Zimmer and his men were secreted near the brewery all night hoping to catch the beer caravan as it started on its rounds of the city. The beer runners had been tipped off, Zimmer learned, and he smashed down the gates of the brewery and after a short scuffle placed Torrio, O'Bannion and the twenty-eight others, truck drivers and guards, under arrest.

ELECT STUART AS PRESIDENT

BOARD OF EDUCATION HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION.

Receive Delegation Wanting Children Transferred From Clinton to Hartley—Stadium More Than Half Paid For.

Charles Stuart was re-elected president of the board of education at the annual meeting held Monday morning, and M. L. Palmer was re-elected vice president. Mr. Stuart was advanced from the vice presidency in February on the resignation of E. E. Henkle, and Mr. Palmer made vice president at that time. Mr. Stuart announced that he would appoint new committees before the next meeting, June 3.

In allowing claims, the board voted to complete payment for the property purchased at Thirty-seventh and D. The deal was completed Saturday thru R. A. Bickford the little over seven and a half acres to cost $9,000. An initial payment of $500 had been paid.

A delegation of ten people living in the vicinity of Clinton and Hartley schools, headed by George P. Mann, attorney, appeared to request that a section of the city between Thirty-third and Fortieth and south to X be included in the Clinton district. Fifteen pupils from the section were said to now be attending Hartley on permits, and only seven of others would be effected by the change. Mr. Mann, H. R. Smith and H. P. Kauffman explained the wishes of the committee. It was stated the section geographically belongs to Hartley. Mr. Kauffman said they were being pushed farther and farther out and he was afraid they would be pushed into University Place. This pleasantry called forth from Dr. Bailey the reply that University Place is particular about its inhabitants.

When the matter was discussed after retirement of the delegation, the superintendent said the entire Lincoln district is the only one with fixed boundaries. The limits for the various separate school are subject to change. Crowded conditions make it necessary to redistribute children each semester. The matter was left with superintendent and committee on instruction.

A summary of a statement prepared by Charles Stuart, trustee of the high school stadium fund, was presented. The total disbursements, including cost of stadium, expenses and interest paid, are $21,329.84. The total receipts to April 30 were $11,484.33, leaving a balance unpaid of $9,845.51. No proceeds from the spring festival were included in the report.

The engagement of Marie Stroemer, special teacher, at a salary of $1,000, and of Lucie Lewis, regular teacher at $1,100 was authorized.

The superintendent was authorized to proceed with arrangements for playground and school garden projects on a total appropriation not to exceed $1,000. The title of the head engineer was changed to foreman of operation.

RAIL FIGHT IS RENEWED

COALITION ATTEMPTING TO FORCE BARKLEY BILL.

Brought Nearer Passage When House Votes 203 to 180 to Go Into Committee of Whole to Consider It.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Barkley bill, abolishing the railroad labor board advanced one step nearer passage today when the house voted 203 to 180 to go into committee of the whole to consider it.

In division upon the bill, some thirty conservative democrats voted with the republicans to the measure but many more progressive-republicans voted for it. Evidence was frequent that the filibuster which previously delayed the bill would be resorted to again and the house kept in session until late tonight.

Secret agents of the railroads using secret code telegrams have attempted to coerce and mislead members of congress in order to defeat the Barkley bill abolishing the railroad labor board, Representative Nelson, Wisconsin, progressive leader, charged in the house today, when debate on the bill was resumed.

Nelson said members of congress had been deluged with telegrams and letters inspired by railroad agents. He read messages sent out by railroads urging various persons to bring pressure on their congressmen to vote against the bill.

Some of the railroad telegrams coded by Nelson were in code.

"It may be well not to attempt to translate this secret message," said Nelson, "but to wait and see what translations the railroads will offer of these mysterious instructions for influencing congress."

The Barkley bill is regarded as the opening wedge in revising the transportation act of 1920. It was held in committee for months without a hearing. Finally taking advantage of the new revised rules its advocates brought it out on the floor by petition.

So Far Recovered From Cold That He Has Breakfast Conference at White House.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Coolidge was so recovered from the cold that kept him from his work Saturday that he held a breakfast conference at the white house today and expected to resume his work at the executive offices.

Rest and care have almost cleared the cold from his bronchial tubes where it had settled and Brigadier General Sawyer, white house physician, believed it safe for him to take up his work again.

The breakfast conference was held with seven senators whose votes on the bonus scheduled in the senate today or tomorrow are classed as "doubtful." They were Senators Harreld, Oklahoma; Sterling, South Dakota; Cameron, Arizona; Phipps, Colorado; McKinley, Illinois; Dale, Vermont, and Keyes, New Hampshire.

After the conference, one of the senators said he did not believe Mr. Coolidge's arguments had changed any votes. Five senators, Harreld, Sterling, McKinley, Dale and Keyes, have given pledges to support the bonus and will not support the veto, as they told the president. The other two, Cameron and Phipps, this senator said, were the only two open to persuasion and he believed they had made up their minds before the meeting.

Senator Smoot, called on the president after the conference. On leaving he said that unless startling changes had occurred since Saturday he believed the veto would be overridden.

F. J. TAYLOR FOR REGENT

W. D. M'HUGH RENAMED ELECTION COMMISSIONER.

Governor Appoints Farmer-Attorney in Place of Regent W. L. Bates of Lincoln Who Resigned.

Governor Bryan has appointed Frank J. Taylor of St. Paul regent of the university and has reappointed W. D. McHugh, jr., election commissioner of Douglas county.

Mr. Taylor is appointed to serve until January, 1927, to fill a vacancy caused upon the board of regents by the resignation of W. L. Bates of Lincoln, formerly of Lodge Pole. The governor finds no way whereby a candidate for regent can be placed upon the ticket at the general election in November, so the appointment is for the unexpired term.

The appointee has been prominent in democratic politics, once being a candidate for congressman. He is a lawyer and farmer. He owns large tracts of land's between St. Paul and Ogallala. He is a graduate of the Ann Abor law college.

"I have recognized the new constitution in the appointment of Mr. Taylor just as I did in the appointment of a judge of the supreme court," said Governor Bryan. "It was the intention of the people to have regents elected by districts. The fifth and sixth congressional districts have not elected under the district plan and neither has a representative on the board. I feel it my duty to carry out the intent of the constitution tho ith as not yet taken effect in these two districts. I feel that Mr. Taylor is particularly qualified to represent the great western part of the state. He is a farmer on an extensive scale and a lawyer, and is interested in education, particularly higher education. His daughter is a student at the university and he is in full accord with progressive thought and moral ideals so important in the training of pupils."

The governor said Mrs. W. E. Barkley and Prof. J. H. Fransden of Lincoln had been suggested for regent and either is well qualified.

W. D. McHugh, reappointed election commissioner of Douglas county is a republican but has the endorsement of members of all political parties. The governor said his work had been splendid. His commission will date from the expiration of his former one and be for two years.

URGES DISPLAY OF FLAGS

Mayor eZhrung Desires Nice Reception for Military Visitors This Week.

Mayor Zehrung, in a statement issued Monday, urges that flags and bunting be liberally displayed in honor of the military exposition late this week and the visiting soldiery. He urges also that the letter "N" be conspicuous on Saturday, day of the Missouri valley track meet in Lincoln.

"I hope that as many as have these 'N' squares will display them," he said. "I am particularly anxious that down town stores be decorated with the national colors on Friday during the big military parade. I hope also that the colors will be prominent from porches and house windows along the line of march to the fair grounds."

The parade will be reviewed from the city hall steps. According to initial plans, the military line will march in from the fair grounds on Seventeenth, swing west on P street and proceed to Ninth, thence north to O, east to Seventeenth and north to the fair grounds.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Declaring that the indictment of Senator Wheeler of Montana by a Montana grand jury was "justified by the evidence" Senator Sterling republican, South Dakota, in a minority report today flayed the Borah committee which investigated it for "encroaching on the functions of the courts."

Wheeler was "wholly exonerated" by the committee in a report last Wednesday. Sterling said he was impelled by a sense of duty under the facts to dissent from the majority and declared he would be derelict in his duties if he did not express a contrary view.

DENTISTS IN CONVENTION

HOLDING ANNUAL MEETING THIS WEEK IN LINCOLN.

Stay of Four Days During Which an Entertaining Program Will Be Carried Out by the Members.

Dentists from over the state were gathering Monday morning for the fifty-seventh annual convention of the Nebraska Dental Societies to be held here Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Those in attendance Monday morning journeyed to the golf links at the Country club to take part in a strictly dentists' tournament. Those who remained in the city spent the morning viewing the exhibits on display by manufacturers of dentist's supplies at the auditorium.

The convention formally opened with a meeting of the executive council at lunch at the Lindell hotel. The convention was forced to proceed without the president of the society, Dr. E. X. Crowley, Lincoln dentist, who is at present suffering from a nervous breakdown. Vice-president W. S. Shearer of Omaha will preside during the absence of Dr. Crowley.

The Monday afternoon session opened with invocation by Rev. Paul Johnston. J. Cass Cornell, president of the Lincoln chamber of commerce welcomed the organization in a short address and was thanked in behalf of the society by Mr. Shearer. Dr. E. A. Thomas of Hastings addressed the gathering. At 4 p. m. the meeting adjourned to the auditorium for further inspection of the exhibits.

The evening program will begin at 6:15 at the chamber of commerce. As planned there will be no toasts but just a good dinner, special music and dancing.

Tuesday morning at the auditorium thirty-eight separate demonstrations by members will take place in the form of general clinics. The demonstrations will include a wealth of valuable information on practical methods of dentistry and will occupy the entire morning.

Tuesday noon the executive council will meet for the second time at lunch at the Lindell hotel. At 2 p. m. Dr. A. L. Walters of Tulsa, Okla., will address the convention on diets. Dr. Walters is a recognized authority on his subject and his talk promises to be particularly educational in all its phases. Diet has been proved an important factor in dentistry and the subject is of popular interest.

Tuesday evening has been purposely left open for the dentists to enjoy themselves as they see fit.

The entire membership of the organization is expected to attend. More delegates were arriving late Monday afternoon.

SENATE OVERRIDES VETO OF PRESIDENT

House Had Already Passed Bonus Over Disapproval of Coolidge

GETS TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY

Vote Is Fifty-nine For to Twenty-six Against.

COMES SOON AFTER CALLED UP

Reed, Anti-Bonus Leader, Tried to Block Vote Until Saturday But Ashurst Objected and Forced Ballot.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The bonus bill became a law today.

The senate overrode President Coolidge's veto by the two-thirds majority necessary. The house overrode it Saturday.

This was two votes more than the necessary two thirds of those present and voting.

The vote was fifty-nine to twenty-six.

The vote came within half a hour after the bill was called up by Senator Curtis, Kansas, republican whip, shortly after 2 p. m. all debate being dispensed with.

When the bill was called up, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, anti-bonus leader, asked unanimous consent that it go over until Saturday, but Senator Ashurst, Arizona democrat and bonus advocate objected and forced the vote.

Crowds of house members thronged into the chamber and crowded around the walls. The galleries were filled.

The bill provides life insurance policies for veterans on the basis of adjusted compensation at the rate of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service.

Basic compenstion of not to exceed $500, for home veterans and $625 for overseas men, is multiplied by an arbitrary figure to arrive at the face value of the insurance policies, roughly two and one-half times the basic compensation.

LAWYERS PLAN BARBECUE FEED

Students of Nebraska Univeristy Law College to Hold Fourth Annual Barbecue at Auto Club Park June 5.

Students of the University of Nebraska law college are making preparations for the annual law college "blowout" which has almost become a tradition with the lawyers. It has been the custom for the past four years to hold a barbecue "feed" and the present plans are to hold another this year. The day has been set for June 5 and a program is being prepared for the day.

Lawyers, graduates of the Nebraska law college and students of the college will be in attendance with the justices of the supreme courts as guests. An invitation has been extended to Emory R. Buckner, former law student here, who will represent the 1904 graduating class as alumni orator, to attend the barbecue.

The group will gather at the law college at 10 o'clock in the morning after which a parade will be formed and proceed thru the downtown district and later to the Auto club park for the "feed" at noon. A band and a list of athletic events will be in order for the afternoon.

About 150 men attended the barbecue at the closing of the 1923 term and provision is being made for more than that number this year.

RATES WILL BE HALVED

REGISTERED LIVE STOCK BREEDERS GET CONCESSION.

Railway Commission Gives Permission But Declines to Allow Liability to Be Limited in Its Order.

The request of the various railroads in the state to be permitted to reduce rates for carrying registered live stock, as their contribution to the diversified farming movement, was granted by the state railway commission Monday. The live stock breeders have been seeking rate concessions for some time as the existing schedules and the conditions under which their stock is shipped have limited their sales territory.

Under the order issued, which becomes effective on one day's notice and application, the present rates will be cut in two, with $7.00 as the minimum charge.

The delay in issuing the order has been due to the hesitancy of the commission as to a condition the railroads desired inserted, and that was that in view of the low rate given they should be held liable for any injury or damage to the stock while in transit. The railroads suggested that the shipper could be given the option of the low rate with liability waived or the high rate with liability in full effect.

The commission, however, concludes that section 4, article 10, of the constitution, which says that the unlimited liability of common carriers can never be waived precludes it from making waiver of liability a part of the order.

The commission says that the application appears to be of advantage to the agricultural interests, and warrants emergency treatment. Therefore the order becomes effective on one day notice and publication, without reference to the contract of shipment, but the railroads will be expected to so publish the new rates that they fall within the constitutional provisions on the limitation of liability. The rates continue in force until Dec. 31, 1924.

WOMAN SLEW HER LOVER

Wife of Another Throws Carbolic Acid on Widower, From Effects of Which He Dies.

COLUMBUS, O., May 19—Mrs Grace Doby, thirty-five, was arrested in a rooming house here today and held on charge of murder in the death of George B Hackney, a widower and father of four children.

Jealous of his attentions to other women, Mrs. Dolby, who has a husband and four sons, threw carbolic acid in Hackney's face in a motion picture theater last night, causing burns and shock from which he died on the way to a hospital.

"I just read that he was dead and was going to turn on the gas," Mrs. Dolby told police as they broke into her room.

Mrs. Dolby confessed she had been "keeping company" with Hackney for three years and spent some time with him in St. Louis last summer. Her husband, hearing of this, filed suit for divorce, but later withdrew it when she returned to him for a short time.

"He said he didn't want me any more," Mrs. Dolby said in her statement. "I went to a drug store and bought the acid. Then I went to the theater and sat down beside him. When I threw the acid in his face, I told him: 'No other woman will want to go with you now.'"

Mr. Dolby was employed as a private detective and last year was a deputy sheriff under Sheriff Holycross.

COMMUNITY STILL IS TAKEN

Three Men Are Arrested Following Discovery of Large Circulating Still and Equipment.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 19—Sheriff Palmer, Deputy Sheriff Griffin and State Deputy Marshal Budschus raided the Clarence E. Gregg farm near here and found a quantity of liquor and one of the most complete plants for the retailing of liquor ever found in the county. The plant was found in an upper room of the farmer's home. The equipment seized included ten larger barrels, hundreds of pint and quart bottles, a set of funnels and supplies of corks and jugs. A van was summoned and all was removed to the county seat. Gregg pleaded guilty to both the possession of a still and to the sale of intoxicating liquor and was fined $100 and costs on the latter charge and bound over to the district court on the former. Two sons accompanied the father to the city. The officers also detained two men giving the names of H H Fry and Peter Hershey, who were later identified by Hastings police as being residents of that city. The officers found an automatic pistol in Hershey's possession at the time of his arrest.

BUDDY POPPY DAY IS MAY 24

William Homer Carrol, commander of Admiral Peary Ship post No. 427, pinning the first buddy poppy on President Coolidge. This poppy was specially constructed by all members of the buddy poppy factory and by their special request was pinned on the lapel of the president. The buddy poppy will be sold by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Lincoln on May 24. Mayor Zehrung has issued the following proclamation relating thereto

"Whereas, the president of the United States has expressed the hope that in accordance with the custom already established thru the symbol of the poppy worn on Memorial day, the people of these United States shall again pay their tribute to their soldier dead, and

"Whereas the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which organization has been officially designated to support this movement, will cause to be sold on May 24 poppies to be worn in such commemoration, the poppies to be made by disabled veterans and the proceeds of their sale to be used for alleviating the condition of other war disabled, now,

"Therefore, I, F C Zehrung, mayor of the city of Lincoln, Neb, earnestly urge that the citizens of this city give their sincere co-operation to this cause which has for its purpose the commemoration of the sacrifice of those who gave their lives and health in the defense of their country."

President Coolidge, in a letter to Commander-in-Chief Brett of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said

I hope the efforts thru this movement to perpetuate and strengthen the national sentiment of obligation to those who served their country in the world war will be eminently successful."

AWAIT ACTION OF WAR

Interest in Resolution on Outlawing Conflicts Paramount Among Methodists.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 19—The anti-war resolution of the committee on state of church of the Methodist Episcopal general conference has been cast aside and a special committee authorized to deal with the question it was announced this afternoon.

The resolution adopted by the state committee of the church was to have been presented to the general conference today.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 19—Interest in impending action by the Methodist Episcopal general conference on a resolution "outlawing" war as far as the church is concerned today overshadowed that manifested in the election of four new bishops.

Election of bishops for vacant Episcopal seats at Buffalo, Omaha, Chattanooga and Singapore was first on the day's order of business, however.

The conference appeared divided over the resolution against war.

The committee on the state of the church adopted by a considerable majority a resolution calling for the church to take a decisive stand in opposition to war while leaving it to an individual own conscience whether he participates.

Telegrams opposing adoption of the "anti-war" resolution have poured in during the past few days.

CHICAGO, May 19—The Colonial theater, scene of the Iroquois theater fire of 1903 when 575 persons lost their lives, was stripped of its furnishings today, preparatory to being torn down to make way for an office building.

In November 1902, the Iroquois was thrown open to the public. A few months later, while the place was jammed, fire broke out on the stage. A mad panic followed, and nearly all the victims were trampled to death in the wild rush to escape.

Later, the theater was rebuilt and renamed the Colonial.

WOODS ASKS FOR RELIEF

AMERICAN ENVOY TO JAPAN HAS RESIGNED PLACE.

Not Due to Crisis in Relations Over Exclusion Bill But to Illness of Wife's Mother, It Is Said.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Cyrus E Woods, American ambassador to Japan, has asked to be relieved of his duties in Tokio.

His resignation, however, has been tendered, it was officially explained here today, because of the ill health of Mrs. Woods' mother and has no connection whatever with the present crisis in relations between the United States and Japan over the Japanese exclusion provision of the immigration bill.

Whether President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have actually accepted Woods' resignation is not yet known. It is believed, however, that Wood's wish to retire will be granted.

Woods has been ambassador to Japan a comparatively short time. While American ambassador to Spain he was designated by the late President Harding as envoy to Tokio to succeed Charles Beecher Warren, now ambassador to Mexico.

Woods was active in extending aid to sufferers during the Japanese earthquake and fire, and worked hard in the interest of good relations between the United States and Japan.

CODE DRAWS AMENDMENTS

DESIGNED TO REQUIRE FIRE PROOF TENEMENTS.

Regardless of Location, Hotels, Apartments, Public Buildings and the Like Shall Be Defiant to Flame.

Three ordinances amending the code were presented at Monday's council meeting. The amendments pertain to the city building code. Altho several sections are amended, the meat of the thing is to require that apartment houses, tenements, hotels and public buildings, whether within or without the fire limits, be of fireproof construction. The amendments pertain only to buildings more than two stories high but include remodeling as well as new construction. Each ordinance carries the emergency clause and Mr. Cowgill expected to move suspension of the rules.

It also is provided that all buildings within the fire limits if less than four stories or forty-five feet high shall contain no combustible materials in the walls and shall have metal or non-combustible ceilings. No frame buildings shall exceed two stories except when occupied by two families when the maximum may be two and one-half stories.

An ordinance was introduced extending the fire limits to include the south half block between Twelfth and Thirteenth and H and J.

With the storm sewer dispute settled, plans and specifications in connection with the paving of Woodsdale boulevard and streets in Woodsdale addition, were submitted. The city engineer estimates the cost at $64,500 if asphaltic concrete is used and $86,000 if brick is used. Alternative bids will be sought. A resolution donating 750 lineal feet of fifty-four-inch vitrified tile segment block to the district was passed. This will reduce the total cost of the property approximately $3,000. The blocks are from salvage stock taken from the original intercepting sewer leading to the sewage disposal plant.

Ordinances were introduced creating the following districts:

Alley paving from E to F and Thirteenth to Fourteenth.

Alley paving from F to G and Thirteenth to Fourteenth.

Creating paving district along M street, Thirty-third to Thirty-seventh and Thirty-seventh, M to O.

Heat Wave Aids in Spread—Two Dead, Scores Ill and 166 Members of Reichswehr in Hospitals.

BERLIN, May 19.—Signs of an epidemic of the dread Asiatic typhus or something closely resembling that deadly disease, have appeared and are spreading simultaneously in different parts of Germany.

A heat wave is aiding spread of the paratyphus epidmecis.

Two have died and scores are seriously ill at Bamberg in Bavaria, while at Hamelin the epidemic attacked the troops, 166 members, of the Reichswehr being in hospitals. Putrid meat is believed to have caused the disease in Bavaria.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Friends: In writing for an answer either by letter or thru The Journal, always give at least a week's time. And do not fail to enclose a stamped, addressed envelope if a personal reply is desired. Otherwise, you will be answered thru The Journal or the letter cast aside.—Mary Gordon.

Dear Mary Gordon: Where can I buy suitable hat brims and crowns? I believe there are firms selling pressed hat brims and crowns. Likely you can locate the address of a reliable firm.

Information will be appreciated thru the Journal.—A Reader.

A. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Dear Mary Gordon: In our town we have an American Legion and Auxiliary. We meet once a month for a social time and we wondered if you would give us some suggestions as to entertainment. We have played cards, had musical programs and dances.—A. L. A.

A. L. A.: If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send suggestions.

Dear Mary Gordon: I would like the words of poem commencing like this:

There is lots of joy in living
If you strike the proper gate
If you always come up smiling
In the face of every fate.

Also the word of poem that runs something like this:

Let me be when I am weary just a little bit now cheery
Let me be a little blinder to the faults of those around me.

I would also like your advice on this matter. A friend came to our city some time ago who knew of my whereabouts. Spent several days here but showed her indifference by not calling. Would you call her attention to it or simply show yourself indifferent and ignore her.—K. C.

A. I would ignore the incident. Perhaps she was busy or had lost your address. Or perhaps she felt you two had drifted apart. Some times friends do, after a separation of a long time.

Dear Mary: I am seventeen years of age and go to dances quite often. What I want to know is: 1—Is it proper to dance every dance?

2—If some one that can't dance extra well asks you quite often and you do not like him very well would it be right to turn him down? He is a close neighbor.—"Hettie."

A. 1—It's all right, if you can, tho I should think you would like to sit one out once in a while.

2—No, better endure his dancing than hurt his feelings.

FARM HAND KILLS GIRL

Iowa Miss Who Failed to Return Love of George Kaney Shot—Man Commits Suicide.

STORM LAKE, Ia., May 19.—A man and the girl who did not return his love are dead here today as the result of a double shooting.

George Kaney, farm hand, shot and killed Grace Kavane and then shot himself, dying several hours later.

Kaney met Miss Kavane on the street. The girl was accompanied by two women friends. Kaney insisted on going home with Miss Kavane. A quarrel resulted. He followed her home and a short time later, according to Mrs. Kavane, shot her.

Mrs. Kavane was standing inside a door and when the shot was fired, arrived on the porch to see her daughter fall.

Kaney then pointed the gun at his own temple and fired again.

The couple had been going together for some time it was said, but Miss Kavane conistently refused to marry Kaney.

NINETY STUDENTS GRADUATE

Large Class Will Graduate From Grand Island High School.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 19.—The annual graduating class of the Grand Island high school was addressed last night by the Rev. J. H. Stitt, of the First M. E. church, in the usual baccalureate service. Thirty-one students graduate this year from the college course, twenty-six in the commercial, twenty-four academic and nine normal, a total of ninety. This is a decrease from last year of fifteen. There has been an increased interest during the year however, it is claimed, in the scholatic supplementary activities as compared with the athletic, a decidedly larger number of students making the higher gradings. Of the class of ninety this year forty-seven are girls and thirty-three are boys. In a recent monthly report Superintendent Gates paid a fine compliment to the local press for its cooperation, particularly in the establishment of the first successful night school and in the encouragement of scholarship attainments.

NEGRO ALLEGED SLAYER.

nance, regardless of what he may think of an expenditure of upwards of $1,650 when the audit cost heretofore has been around $250, takes the position that there is nothing else for him to do. Mr. Cowgill admits that in asking for something beyond the cash audit, he is aiming directly at the treasury. He has made frequent statements regarding so-called loose money. He insists that there never has been a complete audit of the treasury.

In view of the fact that Mr. Cowgill so often votes as a minority of one, someone suggested that he might swing around and vote against this thing which he proposes. He expected a merry row and prior to the meeting, was not in touch with the changed attitude of his colleagues.

One objection to an extensive audit has been that no funds were appropriated. Mr. Cowgill himself has been a stickler for the appropriation string, and raised a row over the capitol sewer because he alleged, there had been no appropriation. His colleagues and the legal department took issue with him. He now hops the appropriation rope, but contends that the money should properly come from the general fund which, he says, has delivered a substantial balance at the end of each of the last two fiscal years and should so deliver at the end of the present year. While assuming that his colleagues would oppose his complete audit theme, Mr. Cowgill said:

"An auditor's report should be a good thing to talk about at the next election. If it looks good for the treasury, then it should work to the advantage of Mr. Dayton."

JAPS PROTEST U. S. ACTION

MASS MEETING DENOUNCES THE EXCLUSION BILL.

Appeal to American Public and Press for Greater Leniency Toward Those Desiring to Enter Country.

TOKIO, May 19 Resolutions denouncing the United States congress' action towards Japanese immigration were adopted at two mass meetings Sunday. The resolutions also appealed to the American public and press for greater leniency towards Japanese citizens desiring to enter the United States.

One of the mass meetings was held under the auspices of the members of parliament, another under the auspices of university students.

The first resolution, after condemning legislation opposed to Japanese entering the United States, admonishes prudence, composure, firm determination, wise judgment and avoidance of mob action on the part of the Japanese.

The second was in similar vein, the students appealing to American students thru the American press to "take proper measures to prevent the bill being enforced."

Apparently Japanese leaders, realizing that the present high feeling is bound to vent itself, are nedeavoring to direct and guide it along rational lines, emphasizing that the action of congress must not be accepted as representing the opinion of the American people as a whole. Japan's salvation, they point out, lies in arousing the American public generally to the interest of Japan.

JUSTICE SUPERIOR TO LAW

In Arkansas Mountains Strange Tales Told of Unbroken Faith.

HARRISON, Ark., May 19.—Out of the Boston mountains of Newton, Arkansas' single county not touched by railroads, sometimes drift strange tales concerning the unbroken faith of pioneer ancestors and of the swift justice dealt out by the mountaineers whose knowledge of things "outside" is small and whose curiosity of such is even smaller.

Several weeks ago, Lark Shaffer, United States deputy marshal, traveled far into the hills with a warrant for the arrest of Joe Farmer upon a whisky-making charge, only to find that mountain justice administered by the boy's father had cheated the warrant. Crazed by whisky, Joe Farmer threatened to shoot his mother and was shot down by his father.

A few weeks later, Shaffer again entered the section with warrants for the arrest of four brothers of the dead man, upon charge of liquor manufacture.

Miles inland and widely separated from his car when he rounded up his four prisoners, all men with families Shaffer was faced with the task of securing night lodgings for himself and prisoners. He led the party to the only farm house in the neighborhood, despite the information that it was the home of Tom Farmer, father of the prisoners.

The tiny home would not accommodate the five men, so the senior Farmer suggested that the marshal allow the four men to return to their homes and spend the night, pledging his word of honor that all would return the following morning. Shaffer spent the night in the home of the father of the four prisoners, who returned before sunrise to accompany the "law" to Harrison for arraignment.

WANTS HELP WITH MILLION

Arthur Nash, Golden Rule Manufacturer, Asks Christian What to Do With Wealth.

CINCINNATI, O., May 19.—Arthur Nash, "Golden Rule" clothing manufacturer, is asking the world to tell him what to do with a million dollars.

Nash is about to become a millionaire. And he doesn't want to be one.

The "golden rule" plan under which he runs his factory, giving his employes their share of the profits, his paid richly. Shortly he will own more than a million dollars worth of the company's stock.

"I have seen too many crimes committed under the protection of a millionaire cloak," says Nash "I don't care to be one."

In a few days a 100 per cent stock dividend in his company will make him worth $1,250,000.

So he is asking "What shall I do with my million?" in thirty-three religious periodicals this week. Nash believes readers of these papers have a better conception of the golden rule than others.

"This question," says Nash, "is a test of their Christianity From the answers I receive to my questions I hope to discover whether professing Christians have a real understanding of the application of Christianity to the industrial problems of the day."

He expects to give his own answer to his question later.

CONTEST CLOSES TUESDAY NIGHT

The march of the feet into the Journal's pretty feet contest has kept up daily since the contest opened. But one day remains as the contest closes at 6 p m. Tuesday night. Many, now, are just waiting for the judges decision for they know their entries are safely in the hands of the contest manager They are the ones who made arrangements early instead of putting it off from day to day Some who are waiting until the very last minute are now running the risk of having out a "wish I had" feeling when contest closes and the pictures are turned over to the judges. Those who expect to enter pictures on the last day should see to it that the pictures reach the Journal before 6 p m. Tuesday.

CUTS OFF PHONE SERVICE

August Lampman Summoned Before State Commission to Explain Summary Acts.

Formal complaint was filed with the state railway commission Monday by A. M. Walters, attorney for the Rosemont subscribers of the Glenwood Telephone company. They say that the service is bad, and that August Lampman, who is the director in charge of that district, has acted in an arbitrary and illegal manner. They say that he put in a second hand switchboard that resulted in such poor service that they refused to pay their dues unless it was bettered. Lampman told them he would cut them off if they did not pay. They sought to stave this off by depositing the money due in the local bank and then notifying August he could have it when he gave them better service. Instead of doing anything of the kind August severed their connections, and they are now entirely deprived of service.

They say that Lampman has given no bond, that he spent $400 for a swicthboard when he is limited by the articles to asking authority for all expenditurse over $200, and that they would like to have the whole matter investigated and justice done.

WHAT CONSTITUTES DURESS

Supreme Court Asked to Say If Threatening to Arrest Is Illegal Compulsion.

Argument was heard in supreme court Monday on the question of whether the threat of an officer of the Farmers' State bank of Overton made to Swan Johnson of Lexington that if he did not sign a $4,000 note for his son-in-law, Ernest Wowler, he would cause the arrest of Dowler for taking mortgaged property out of the county constituted such duress as would invalidate the note which Johnson signed.

Dowler was a farmer in Dawson county, and had given a mortgage on some live stock to the bank as security for the debt. He had bad luck with the animals, a number of them dying. He moved across the line into Buffalo county, taking the remainder of the animals with him, and this was what the banker claimed subjected him to arrest.

Dowler and Johnson and their respective wives testified that the banker had said that for doing this without the consent of the bank he was up against it, and that if Johnson wanted to stave off prosecution he should sign as surety. The court below held that this was not duress in the legal sense, that in America a man cannot be sent to jail until a jury says he is guilty, and that, therefore, it was not compulsion to be compared with where a man threatens life or bodily harm.

The appeal is based on the contention that the lower court erred in directing a verdict for the bank.

EDDY'S ORTHODOXY WAS QUESTIONED

John L. Marshall Would Condemn Beliefs of Religious Worker Among Students—Ministers Take No Action.

A discussion of fundamentalism enlivened the last meeting of the year of the Lincoln ministers held Monday morning. The orthodoxy of Sherwood Eddy, the Y. M. C. A. speaker, who conducted a series of meetings for university students recently, had been questioned at a previous meeting and a committee appointed to write Mr. Eddy for a statement of beliefs. Rev H. G. Smith read Mr. Eddy's reply and offered the resolution for a majority of the committee that the matter be tabled. Rev. John L. Marshall, jr., offered a minority report. Mr. Marshall read a criticism of Mr. Eddy's beliefs as reported by a paper in another state and advocated adverse action by the ministerial association

Rev. M. A. Bullock, Dr F. S. Stein and others objected to "splitting hairs over power from a belief in Jesus Christ." Rev. S. Mills Hayes objected to condemning a man on hearsay, and others who had no personal knowledge of the matter declined to go on record. The motion as originally put was carried and the whole matter tabled.

The annual supper, to which the ladies will be invited, was dated for June 9 A suitable program will be provided.

J. Shreve Durham presented the matter of home visitation and asked further cooperation during the campaign of the coming week. He said the list of those with no religious preference would be given to every minister in the city.

Rev. J. F. Thompson, a retired minister, had the paper His theme was "The Need of the Hour." He said the need was not so much for more ministers as for a better brand of ministers and closer communion among the churches. He expressed the belief that if ministers devoted more time to essentials and less to outside matters, the kingdom would show greater growth "The closer we draw to Christ, the higher our standars will be," he said.

RETRACE BOY'S FOOTSTEPS

Trails Worn by Student Naturalist Gone Over to Find Motive for Double Slaying.

MARYSVILLE, Pa., May 19.—Trails worn by the footsteps of Harry Ganster, school boy naturalist, murdered with his sweetheart, Leah Ellenberger, pretty school teacher, on top of the mountain he had roved since childhood, were retraced by state police today

They were piecing together bit by bit the stories told in the village of his gun fights with the mountaineers, his knowledge of the location of moonshine stills and of quarrels as the result of his intrusions.

A little black note book found on the boy's body directs the police to the places that were most familiar to him A diagram of the mountains marking his favorite trails is shown. Any unusual sign is noted in this book.

Maj. Lynn Adams, in charge of the investigation, followed this course to learn what motive there could have been behind the brutal slaying of the student and the girl who accompanied him on the fatal trip to Lambs Gap where the shooting took place.

DECLINE TO JOIN PARLEY

Brotherhoods and LaFollette Republicans Not to Attend National Conference.

MADISON, Wis., May 19.—Rail brotherhoods and many powerful LaFollette republicans in Wisconsin have declined to participate in the national conference for progressive political action, on which many third party advocates pin their hopes.

At the "organization" meeting of the Wisconsin conference here yesterday the railroad brotherhoods, altho supporting Senator Robert M. LaFollette, withdrew after the conference got under way, saying its promoters were "too radically inclined."

Republican progressives who are partisans of Gov. John J. Blaine and who also favor LaFollette, were sparsely represented at the meeting, and former promoters of the nonpartisan league controlled by the convention.

The Wisconsin elected three delegates to the Cleveland national convention and also chose a representative for the St. Paul farmer-labor convention, June 17.

FIVE ARRESTED IN HALL COUNTY RAID

Clarence Gregg, Farmer, Is Bound Over—His Two Sons and Two Hastings Men Are Being Held.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 18 Clarence Gregg, a farmer living near here, his two sons, and H H. Fry and Pete Hershey, of Hastings, Neb. were arrested here Saturday night. Gregg was bound over to the district court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a still. He was fined $$100 and costs when he admitted his guilt to a charge of selling liquor. He was released on bond.

The other four men are being held in custody but no charges have been filed against them. Mr. Gregg confessed to having had the still, according to officers, but the apparatus was not secured by the authorities. It is alleged that on the second floor of Gregg's farm house were found ten barrels of corn meal and several hundred empty pint and quart bottles. The raid was directed by County Sheriff Palmer. Gregg's farm is in the southeastern part of the county. An automatic pistol was found upon the person of Mr. Hershey, according to officers.

Mrs. Ben Hooper, of Wisconsin, Speaks at First Plymouth Congregational Church.

She is chairman of the state committee in Wisconsin on war prevention. She is on her way to the biennial convention to be held at Los Angeles on June 1 and 2, and is making stops to deliver addresses enroute.

BETTY SEES A HOLLAND MILK-MAID.

IF there was one thing Betty did hate to do, it was to go to the neighbor's house for milk every evening. One evening, when she had pouted and fussed over going, she met Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin on the way and he made all manner of fun at her pouting face.

"It would be very sad if your face were to freeze that way," he laughed. "Why, honey, you don't know how well off you are. Now, I——"

"Have a little friend in——" and Betty couldn't help laughing. "Oh, Gocomeback," she said, "you're such a dear. You're always showing little children how much better off they are than other folks. I'm ashamed. I declare I'll never pout again."

Gocomeback laughed merrily and before Betty knew what was happening, she found herself standing before a queer little house.

It was built right out to the sidewalk. All the windows had tiny glass panes in them and every window held a pot or two of pretty plants. The door looked like a gate. It came only to Betty's shoulders. Each board was pointed just like the boards on a broad board fence. But strangest of all, right out on the sidewalk, in front of the door, sat two pairs of wooden shoes.

"Where in the world are we?" Betty whispered. Just then a merry face, framed by a pretty white bonnet peeked out of the open half of the door and nodded.

"You're in Holland, my dear," cried a happy voice, "and right glad I am to greet you. I was just going for the milk. Will you come along?"

The little girl came out with two brass cans suspended on her shoulders. Gocomeback introduced Betty and the three ran down the little green lane, bordered on either side by a lovely blue canal. Down there, she herded her cows together and sitting on a three-legged stool, milked one after another.

"Goodness!" laughed Betty. "Do you have to do this every day? Milk the cows and carry the milk home?"

"Certainly, I do," replied the little Holland miss. "Then it must all be strained ready for churning. Don't you milk your cows every morning and evening?"

"Will You Come Along?"

"Oh, no, indeed," said Betty, smiling. "Our neighbors own and milk the cows. All I have to do is to carry our milk home in a quart pail. That's how I happen to be here in Holland today.

"Gocomeback saw me pouting because I was sent for the milk. He knew that if I saw the way you little girls in Holland carry two great big heavy cans over your shoulders, besides milking the cows, I'd be ashamed. And I am, Gocomeback," Betty added turning to the elfin.

But Gocomeback, the little Dutch girl, her cows and the canals had all vanished and Betty found herself on the road in front of her own house.

"Isn't that too funny for words!" she laughed merrily, and humming to herself, she trotted on for the milk. That was the last time Betty ever complained when she was asked to go for the milk.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Halting Tribute Edith Fairfax Paid Madge.

"I SHALL have no more worry over Leila," I commented confidently at Edith's fierce little assertion concerning Bess Dean.

Edith looked at me, gratitude and something else in her eyes.

"You—have—been—wonderful to my little sister, Madge," she said steadily, but as if calm speech were an effort for her. "I—cannot—thank you as I ought——"

"Please"—I put up a protesting hand. "You know I love Leila dearly. Suppose—shall we go upstairs now? They surely must have told Mrs. Durkee of your coming by this time."

I think she was as glad as I to terminate the interview, which had held so much of emotional stress for both of us, and we hurried upstairs to Mrs. Durkee's room, finding the little woman excitedly glad and nervously hospitable.

"Edith, dear child!" she exclaimed as I ushered Leila's sister into the room. "What a delightful surprise! But Leila tells me you haven't had a thing to eat yet and you've been here——"

"Probably ten minutes," Edith laughed, stooping and kissing her warmly. "I, no doubt, shall faint with exhaustion in another second or two."

"Lead Me to It!"

"I don't doubt it a bit," Her Fluffiness responded with the delightful child-like manner she has of taking a preposterous jest with such perfect seriousness that one doesn't know whether she really believes it or not. "Leila," with pretty sternness, "I should think you'd be ashamed. If it were my sister, now——"

We all laughed merrily at her vehemence, and Edith again explained that she had lunched at the station.

"After awhile I'll drink a cup of your famous tea with you," she said, "but not now. I want to talk first."

"I'll tell you what," Mrs. Durkee said, her eyes sparkling like those of a little girl at her first dolls' tea party. "I'll make you all a cup of tea up here, before Dicky and Madge have to go. There's some of my Christmas cake wrapped away yet, and it's——"

"Fruit cake!" Dick interrupted. "Some of yours? Lead me to it! Why do you wait for anything so banal as tea?"

"Sit down and be quiet, Dicky," I admonished with assumed severity. "We're all as anxious to taste that cake as you are, and you'll have it, in due time."

"I'll go right away and start things," Leila promised, and Katherine slipped out with her, while little Mrs. Durkee questioned Edith minutely concerning Aunt Dora Paige, whom she likes immensely, and the appearance of the North Carolina "long-leafed-pineland," which she loves.

The Kindly Plot "Works."

It was a quizzing she kept up long after Leila and Katherine reappeared with the tea things, and there was such unconscious wistfulness in little Mrs. Durkee's face and voice as she listened to Edith's glowing descriptions of Spring in the Southland that I think we all realized no finesse would be needed to induce her to make the trip we all wished for her.

I saw Edith lift her eyebrows at Katherine, in mute inquiry, and Katherine's affirmative nod. So I was not surprised when Mrs. Durkee exclaimed:

"Violets and daffodils and lilacs budding!" to hear Edith bend forward and say, coaxingly:

"I am the bearer of an invitation to you to come to see those blossoms just as soon as you are able to make the trip. The last thing Aunt Dora said was: 'Make her come right away. I'm so lonesome down here.'"

The invalid's eyes sparkled.

"Oh, wouldn't that be scrumptious!" she said. "I don't know anything I'd rather do. But Leila"—she paused uncertainly.

"I can stay here with Leila while you are gone," Edith answered.

"That'll be all right then, but will you promise me one thing, to have that Lucy downstairs out of the house the day before I come back? I don't care what you do while I'm gone, but——"

"We'll do better than that," Edith said smiling. "We'll have her out of the house tomorrow, if you're willing to accept me as substitute."

"No, wait till I'm gone," Mrs. Durkee conceded reasonably. "There'll be enough to do before I go. My clothes are a sight. Katherine, how soon can I start?"

"In a week," Katherine responded as equably as if she had not told us the same thing outside her patient's hearing but a few minutes before.

"I'll have just about time to get ready," Mrs. Durkee commented happily, and the rest of us exchanged congratulatory glances on the success of our little plot.

THE HOME KITCHEN

A Dainty Breakfast for the Bridesmaids of a Spring Wedding

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

THE bridesmaid's breakfast, given for the attendants of the June bride, is rather newer than entertaining the whole wedding party at a formal dinner, and it also gives the girls a chance for a peep at the trousseau. The tablecloth, center or set, should be of white, and the flowers used for decoration should be flowers in all the delicate pastel shades.

The matron of honor sits at the right hand of the bride, and the first bridesmaid at her left.

MENU.

Fruit Cocktail.
Waffles, Honey and Whipped Cream.
Broiled Spring Chicken.
Baked Pineapple, Sweet Potatoes.
Moulded Vegetables.
Hot Biscuits. Strawberry Shortcake.
Coffee.

For the fruit cocktails, use the pulp of grapefruit, oranges, pineapple, tart green apples, a little chopped red pepper and a few minced maraschino cherries. Use half grapefruit shells scalloped around the tops for the service, the cups set in bowls of shaved ice. Prepare the fruit in a large bowl. When ready, sprinkle it with a very little powdered sugar, then with a French dressing made with a little tarragon vinegar diluted with the fruit juices. Chill the fruit and just before it is time to fill the cups, drain it thoroughly. Dust the top of each portion with a little powdered sugar. By using the very light French dressing, a little more piquant flavor is given to the fruit, which makes it an appetizer rather than a sweet concoction.

Follow the cocktail with hot waffles. Heat the honey, adding a few drops of lemon juice to it, then put on each serving a little soft, unsalted butter and a little heap of whipped cream.

Next, the broilers are served, a small whole or larger half to each portion. The sweet potato dish is a special dainty. The potatoes are boiled, then mashed. A heaping tablespoonful of butter is added with pepper and salt, then a cupful of drained, grated, canned pineapple or a cupful of chopped, fresh pineapple is beaten with a quarter cupful of fine[illegible]

CARRIERS ON TAX VALUES

PLAN TO APPEAL FROM STATE BOARD'S FINDINGS.

If Reduction Is Not Granted the Railroads Will Add to Their Appeal Cases Now Pending.

When the state board of assessment met Monday to hear representatives of railroads they found the carries present with all the necessary machinery to lay a foundation for an appeal to the courts. If the board does not reduce the valuation of railroad property or make rulings asked for by the roads, an appeal can be taken upon the record now being made at this hearing. The carriers brought with them a stenographer to take down testimony, particularly the testimony presented by the railroads.

If the contest is not fought out at this hearing, it will be at another to be held soon when the board's attorneys will cross question witnesses of the carriers.

The state board comprises Governor Bryan, Secretary of State Pool, Auditor Marsh, Treasurer Robinson and Tax Commisisoner W. H. Smith. Mr. Robinson is temporarily absent.

The winning of important points in suits pending in the state and federal courts is said to have encouraged the roads to pave the way for an appeal from the valuation which the board will place upon railroad property this year.

At the hearing Monday railroad tax commissioners took a rear seat and attorneys for the roads took charge of the showing. Each road presented its different methods of valuing railroad property and the average amount found by using all the various methods.

TO WHITEN SKIN WITH LEMON

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also to soothe red, rough or chapped hands and face. You must mix this remarkable bleach yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared. —Advertisement.

A New Love Serial

A Reassuring Message.

When Rose-Mary had finished feeding Aunt Emma's baby chicks and was working contentedly in the pansy bed a messenger boy sauntered up the path with a telegram for "Miss Rose-Mary Preston."

Rose-Mary gave the boy a quarter from her apron pocket as a tip for his long walk, and then thrust open the envelope to read:

"Stay as long as you wish. The twins are at our house daily, but I will not tell them where you are.

DAD."

Until that moment Rose-Mary had not allowed herself to think of Chester Shipman or Dick Rolson. Her aunt had suggested that she needed a complete change, and the baby chicks and early spring flowers were supplying that change.

Even now, with the thought of the two suitors constantly calling at her home and trying to find out how they might send her flowers, write to her or send some message Rose-Mary found herself able to put all thoughts of love aside.

"It will all come out for the best," she laughed softly to herself, "and now I'm just going to think of earth worms and pansies and rich soil. Perhaps later my thoughts will run heavenward and turn to love!"

"Oh, boy, aren't you afraid of worms? Well, I'll be darned. You're the first city girl I ever saw who could touch one!"

Rose-Mary turned to behold a great towering youth, clad in blue jeans and a soft silk shirt. It was an unusual combination, but as she looked again she saw a very unusual young man standing before her.

"No, I'm not afraid of worms and I thought I might as well get these from the flower bed and feed them to Aunt Emma's baby chicks," she replied as she dug out another worm and assisted it into the tin tomato can beside her. "By the way, do you object to telling me just who you are and what you are doing in Aunt Emma's garden?"

"Not at all. I'm Aunt Emma's partner!"

"Her what?"

"Partner. You didn't suppose Aunt Emma kept 3,000 chickens without some sort of assistant did you?"

The young man now sat down near Rose-Mary and also began to weed out the pansy bed and to collect worms. "Thanks so much for helping me," he grinned, with the same self-assuring spirit that Dick Rolson always employed. "You see, I'm really not a poultry man. Fact is my health broke down and I had to keep outdoors."

Now she understood the white silk shirt and well oiled hair. The blue jeans were just for effect. They were a necessary stage setting.

"How long are you going to stay here?" he asked suddenly.

"I don't know."

"Great guns, that sounds interesting. Now, of course, your Aunt Emma is a very splendid person but what this place needs is young blood."

Tomorrow—Further Away from the Twins.

WHEN OTHERS WORK FOR YOU

By Julia Hoyt

There are certain established rules of etiquet for the actresses and actors in the theatre, and there should be certain established rules of etiquet for any business or employment. It makes no difference if a son of a rich man is acting as office boy, as long as he is acting as office boy he must observe the regulations laid down for him. In the army we all know that rules of discipline have to be followed, otherwise the efficiency of each regiment is decidedly lowered. I believe that in running a household the same thing holds good. Both the employer and employee should concur. A really efficient and good worker will take pride in knowing the correct way to address and treat his employer. Those who seem to feel that they are losing cast by so doing, are simply showing that they have an inferiority complex.

I hope that I have made it clear that I do not mean the employer should be patronizing, rude or impatient in her attitude; it is simply a question of certain set rules that should be followed. The woman who wants a smoothly running household will have her work very definitely partitioned off, and the manner in which it must be carried out will be well defined in her mind. If her helpers understand this from the beginning, and know exactly what they are to do, both the employer and employee will find things much easier.

A great mistake made by some household employers, I think, is to give the impression of not trusting their help to get their work done well. Some women I know are forever hunting and looking for slackness or laziness. If the mistress once gives clearly the impression that she is a good housekeeper and requires the work to be done thoroly, she should then leave her help rather alone and never make them feel that she is snooping. It is a mistake to invade their quarters, the kitchen for instance, and their bed rooms, and make them feel that they have no privacy. If you wish to visit the kitchen each day, for instance to see that it is clean, do it at a definite hour. The more responsibility you put on a worker, granted ordinary diligence, the more interest the worker will evince in his job. That is true of the business office and of the home as well. To be checking up on a worker continually, weakens his sense of responsibility.

I have known many women in various parts of the world, and visited at many homes, and invariably I have found that the best housekeepers are those who demand efficient and honest service, but who, at the same time, are considerate, polite and human with the persons working for them. It is these women who have the households to which we all love to be invited.

It is a human problem that touches every one of us—this getting along with those who work for us—and it deserves the study of women today more than ever before. Why? Because nowadays each of us is working for someone else, at sometime or other. Most of us have to please others in some way in order to make a living. It seems to me the opportunity to apply the golden rule on a grander scale than ever before.

Fort Riley Soldiers Enroute.

WYMORE, Neb., May 19.—Four hundred men and two hundred fifty horses, together with ten heavy cannons and several wagons and other paraphernalia and a hospital corps forming battery A of the Ninth field artillery arrived in Wymore Sunday morning and camped at Arbor State park. The soldiers are under command of Capt. J. B. White and J. Palmer and are marching from Fort Riley, Kas., to Lincoln for drill work.

"TWO YEARS HAVE GONE BUT I STILL FEEL WELL"

Says Emil Jonscher, In Telling How Tanlac Restored His Health.

"If my statement will cause others to get on the Tanlac road to health I am glad to have it published broadcast," says Emil G. Jonscher, 417 Elm Street, University Place, Neb., a valued employe of the Lincoln Electric Co.

"Before taking Tanlac I had been in an awful run down condition for several months. My appetite had left me, I had had dizzy spells, and that tired feeling was on me all the time. I had no energy and I even felt all played out in the mornings before work time.

"Some of the boys at the car barn, who had tried it, said 'Take Tanlac, it will fix you up all OK,' and it certainly did that very thing. Two years have gone by since then, but my health is still good, so I can say Tanlac heads anything I know of in the medicine line. It simply makes a man feel like he's all made over."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

MERCHANTS TO DECORATE

National and University Colors to Be Displayed for Military Show and Track Meet.

Lincoln retailers will decorate their places of business in honor of the military exposition on Friday and the Missouri valley track meet Saturday, it was decided Monday by the retail trade promotion sub-division, meeting at the chamber of commerce. American flags and "N" banners will be combined for the occasion.

The soldiers will arrive Wednesday noon from Fort Riley and it is planned to have the decorations in place by that time, both as a welcome to the visitors and in order to advertise the events of the week. The troops will come into O street at Seventeenth and thence to the state fair grounds. They will parade again Friday noon, together with reserve officers, university cadets, the York national guard band, girl cadet corps and Forty-and-Eight drum corps.

BLOWING SMOKE RINGLETS

Mr. Cowgill Prefers Use of Big Pipe to Court Procedure on Eleventh Street.

The street department head, while admitting that steps could be taken which probably would bring the [illegible] injunction to trial and final settlement, indicates that he prefers to use the pipe and blow smoke down that stretch south of M. He threw another scare Monday when he said:

"Concentrated traffic on the east side of the street is causing that portion of pavement to go rapidly. It may soon be necessary to barricade the entire block."

He expects to go to Kentucky, Illinois and West Point in the not far distant future and, he says, if Eleventh street property owners want the timber barricades lifted they must first lift the injunction. In order to provide for his trip in a financial way, he offered a resolution Monday directing the city clerk to draw a warrant on the mmy coal fund in the sum of $200 in favor of Allen P. Cowgill.

In addition to his visit to West Point, where he will not inspect coal, he has a date at Elmira. He will not ask the city to pay his expenses east from Chicago. He will draw upon the coal fund only for his pilgrimage to the mines of Illinois and Kentucky. He recently drew $125 to visit the mines of Arkansas and Oklahoma and surprised his colleagues by bringing home a bit of change.

WOMAN KIDNAPER TO PEN

Mrs. De Marco, Who Abducted Corina Modell, Given Two Years and Half in Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 19.—Mrs. Mary De Marco, who kidnaped ten weeks' old Corina Modell, was sentenced to at least two years and six months and not more than five years in prison here today. The woman pleaded guilty to the charge.

The trial lasted just forty-three minutes. Assistant District Attorney Warren C. Graham recited the facts of the case. Robert E. Hagen, representing Mrs. De Marco, made a strong plea for clemency. This was followed by the judge's sentence.

Mrs. De Marco interrupted the progress of the court with sobs for mercy. When the judge passed sentence, she exclaimed: "Oh, my God, give me a chance. I am not a bad woman."

Mrs. De Marco kidnaped the Modell baby May 5.

CAMPAIGN PLAN FOR YEAR

Hi-Y Federation at Camp Strader Approves an Outline.

The Lancaster county Hi-Y federation in its meeting at Camp Strader made, thru a committee appointed for that purpose, findings for the work to be done during the next season. It was recommended that Hi-Y units be organized in church Sunday schools and that one of the requisites for retaining membership in the organization be that the member attend 50 per cent of the meetings. On activities for the year these recommendations were made:

Fall Hi-Y rally in October to be held at Y. M. C. A., banquet to be furnished by the different clubs assisted by their mothers.

A joint program to be staged for the purpose of raising club funds.

The Find Yourself campaign similar to the one held last year in January.

That we promote a week-end camp retreat at the Lincoln Y. M. C. A. camp at Crete the third week in September and again in May.

We recommend that the wrestling and boxing tournaments be discontinued and that an indoor baseball tournament be held. Alsothat the Y. M. C. A. be asked to promote a Hi-Y basketball tournament.

That Bible study be given a prominent place in the Hi-Y program and that Bible study be a part of every meeting and members be encouraged to take the international examination.

That a join-the-church campaign be held the month prior to Easter.

That the clubs realize as one of its greatest opportunitnes the enlisting and training of high school boys for leadership in church groups of younger boys.

That each club take a devnite stand on school problems and exert a positive influence for good in school life.

To Hold Catholic Mission.

ELLSWORTH, Neb., May 19.—Father Quinan, a member of the Paulist order of New York city, will give a mission or course of lectures on the Catholic religion at St. Bernard's church here beginning Monday evening May 26, and closing Thursday May 29.

Inasmuch as this well known order was founded by Father Hecker, a convert, a principal object of his followers is to endeavor to lessen if not remove the many prejudices in the minds of many, by a definite dissemination of the Catholic teaching. The appeal of the Paulist father's is the spiritual betterment of men and it is earnest and non-controversial.

To Give Band Concerts.

WYMORE, Neb., May 19. — Wymore's first street band concert, to have been staged Saturday night was postponed on account of rain which began to fall over this vicinity at 6 o'clock. Concerts will be given at various places on the main street each Saturday evening hereafter lasting thruout the summer. The free municipal moving pictures to start on the street at Blue Springs last night were also postponed until next Saturday night.

SAYS FARMERS IN DANGER.

MADISON, Wis., (By mail.)—Farm security in the northwest is "rattling along the highways," good roads taxes are eating into the farmers' slowly decreasing margin of profit and this section of the United States is facing agricultural bankruptcy for the sake of "joyriding," E. C. Quamme, president of the federal land bank, St. Paul, told an audience here. Quamme asserted that predictions of business men that the country was returning to prosperity were "bunk," as far as the farmer was concerned. Quamme called the McNary-Haugen agricultural bill, now before congress an "artificial measure which cannot be defended from an economic standpoint."

Clean Aurora of Dandelions.

AURORA, Neb., May 19. — The week's campaign against dandelions in Aurora has resulted in the eradication of hundreds of thousands of the plants. Tuesday nearly every business man in town joined the forces on the court house lawn and several loads of dandelions were dug up and hauled away. Iron sulphate put the finishing touches to the balance of the plants on the lawn. In the school and church grounds dandelions were dug up.

All over the city householders united in making this a clean up week, specializing on dandelions, and Aurora has a much lifferent appearance than it had a year ago. The chamber of commerce and the business men feel that the effort along dandelion eradication has been well worth while.

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron.)

JUST JAM NOT BREAD AND BUTTER.

Sometimes when I am fussing about the weather when it rains when I specially want it to be pleasant, or is cold when I want it to be warm, or is otherwise unruly, I stop in the middle of that fussing and think "Shame on you. Think of the people to whom weather makes a real difference."

We Shiver, They Work.

We sit in our comfortable homes and shiver at the sound of the wild storm without, or complain bitterly when the electric lights go out and do not come on for an hour or two. But those of the electric linemen and what that storm means to them.

We complain because we have to run an candles and play a hand of solitaire because we can't see to read. Think what the ravages of the storm mean to them, those men who have to go out in the worst of it and handle those death dealing wires in the midst of all that tumult.

Think of the farmer and what the wrong kind of weather means to him. Not just annoyance, but heavy financial loss or perhaps work to be done over again. There is a big wind and he goes out and finds some young crop flattened and destroyed; there is unreasonable cold and he must plant the June peas all over again. There is a long dry spell and the potatoes become wormy or the grass is burned and the cattle go dry.

Expecting To Die The Next Moment

Then there's the sailor. When the wind howls and the rain beats down and you grumble because you can't heat the living room when the wind blows like that, or because the church supper will have a small attendance, he is standing at the wheel with a coat of ice frozen on him, or struggling in the rigging, or expecting that one of the mountainous waves will founder the ship.

Then there's the railroad man. You have a sidewalk to shovel (or more likely a quarter to pay to a small boy) when the heavy storm comes. He has the problem of miles of tracks to keep clear, and to keep clear not after the storm has stopped raging but right in the middle of it.

Rainy Sundays.

Rainy Sundays in the summer are a disappointment to you, but think what they mean to the hotel man or the amusement man. They mean the loss of jam to you but to him the loss of bread and butter.

Of course it is annoying to lose one's jam, and of course one's own jam is more important than other people's bread and butter. But at the same time I do think it helps us maintain a little more philosophical state of mind to remember that it is only jam we are losing and that things might be so much worse.

Near Riot Follows American Rugby Team's Victory

FRENCH HISS FLAG FOLLOWING DEFEAT

French Must Apologize for Action of Lower Element at Olympic Rugby Match—Two Students Knocked Out.

PARIS, May 19.—Following official expressions of regret for the conduct of the crowd after the American rugby team had defeated the French team 17 to 3 in the Olympic championship match yesterday, it is probable that the unpleasant experience of the Americans may be officially forgotten.

Most of the Paris papers today deplored the incidents that occurred during the match and after it when the American flag was hissed and jeered as it was pulled to the top of the staff, when the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" were almost drowned out by jeers and when two American students were knocked out by cane wielders in the stands.

Franz Reichel, secretary of the French Olympic committee, said "the action of the crowd was abominable." He was at a loss to offer an explanation for the feeling against the Americans and he asked to players to believe that the demonstration did not represent the feeling of the better element of the French people.

Rene Lassere, captain of the French team, said his players had no cause for complaint. "We were beaten," he said, "by a better conditioned team. We were beaten fairly and can't understand what caused the crowd to act like it did."

The American players were so overjoyed at having won the championship by such a decisive score against one of the finest teams in Europe that they were inclined to "let it go." The players protested when they were forced to follow a squad of policemen thru a side gate of the stadium after the match and they argued that they were able to take care of themselves.

B. F. Larson of Provo, Utah, and Gideon W. Nelson, De Kalb, Ill., two American students who were knocked out in the stands when the flag was hissed, were not seriously injured. Nelson was around today looking for "a big fellow with a lot of whiskers" who bounced a cane off his skull.

Because they were represented by a team that had defeated the Scottish champions, the French felt sure of a victory over an American team that was considered to be amateurish in their knowledge of real rugby.

When the Americans started out and swept the vaunted Frenchmen off their feet, the feeling of the crowd rose and developed into a radical demonstration of hostilities that ended with the hissing of the flag when the Americans had won the match.

Will Await Official Report.

NEW YORK, May 19.—No action will be taken by the American Olympic committee as a result of the anti-American demonstration in Parisduring the Rugby championship match until a report has been received from American representatives in Paris, it was said here today.

Even after the reports have been made it is not probable that any serious break will come between the French and American officials as there is a disposition here to regard the incident as being a demonstration of feling from only a small part of a very large number of French people.

If the French Olympic committee officially apologizes for the hissing of the American flag and jeering of the Star Spangled Banner, the American committee may forget the whole incident and accept it as something that might have been pardonable under the circumstances.

Prominent officials here pointed out that the French people are hot tempered and that they were put to a great test of sportsmanship to see their idols going down to defeat in front of a team that they did not regard as being formidable.

If the American players are satisfied, the American committee probably will ask that nothing more than apology from the French committee.

Having accomplished their chief purpose in winning the championship and afetr completely vindicating themselves against the charges that they were "roughnecks" and bad players, the American players will feel satisfied to accept the demonstration only as sportsmanship and not as an overt act of war.

Drivers Get Set For 500-Mile Race

INDIANAPOLIS, May 19.—Drivers of cars entered for the 500 mile automobile races at the Indianapolis motor speedway on Decoration day were going into the straightaway on the training period.

Only a few more days remain until the qualification trials start and most of the drivers are behind with the preliminary work.

Tommy Milton winner of last year's race, is using the same Miller car in which he made 141.17 miles an hour on a dry lake bed in California.

Eddie Hearne, champion of two years ago, is tuning up his Duesenberg special for a long, hard race probably the hardest race ever run on the local track.

New comers at the speedway are attracting attention, especially the "Wells Hornet" piloted by F. H. Wells and the Hartley Special, with C. A. Hartley at the wheel.

Ralph De Palme, Howdy Wilcox and some of the others who helped bring fame to the Indianapolis track will be missing when the starters horn sounds this year.

Ivan Riley Will Attempt to Break World's Record in Valley Meet Here

Ivan Riley, great Kansas Aggie track man who is now running under the colors of the Illinois Athletic club, will be here for the Missouri Valley track and field championships Saturday. A wire was received from him Monday morning stating that he would run either John Levi or Kipp of Haskell in a special 400-metre low hurdle race and that he would attempt to crack a world's record while doing it.

Riley, characterized recently by an eastern sports critic as "America's Olympic hope in the 400 metre hurdle race," rather fits into the American ideal of a real hero, except that he isn't a blonde.

Six years ago he was delivering newspapers in Great Bend, Kas., to earn his expenses thru high school. Four years ago he was a very green freshman at the Kansas State Agricultural college. He knew the difference between a track hurdle and a barbed wire entanglement but somehow associated them the first time he worked out.

In high schol he had been a pretty fair quarter miler, winning the event in the state meet once. His work in the 440 had built up a pair of legs. Head Coach Bachman of the Aggies thought he had the making of a hurdler in him and set to work to develope the lad.

Riley developed slowly but arrived with a bang. Last year, his last in collegiate competition, he won the low hurdles in the Valley meet. He took the high hurdles at the National Intercollegiate. He holds the American record in the 440 yard low hurdles. At the Penn relays this year Riley won the 400 meter hurdles in the fast time of 54 3-5 seconds, one second fro mthe world's record for this event.

Riley is a senior in architecture at the Kansas State Agricultural college but he has completed his alloted three years with the Kansas Aggies.

The sports writer who signs himself "Observer" in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, completes the picture of Riley, ideal American athletic hero, in commenting upon the Kansan's sportmanship in one of the Penn relay races in which Riley placed, but did not win, altho he lost like a gentleman "Observer" said:

"There was a bit of sportmanship at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival that has gone unnoticed. It occured on the second day of the gigantic program, and the principal actor was Ivan Riley of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"Riley won his heat in the 120 yard high hurdle event and was regarded as the man to give Charley Moore, the Penn State ace the winner of the event in 1923, a fight for the championship in the final heat.

"But here is what happened: Riley toed the mark along with four other athletics, all of whom had succeeded in working their way to the final by good performances in their heats.

"The starter raised his pistol, gave the command 'on your mark' and then 'get set' and hesitated for the command that would have sent the timber-toppers away. Riley, allowing more time that he regarded necessary for the firing of the pistol, started.

"To the amazement of those who sat in the north stand near the start of the hurdle event, Riley was penalized for a false start. It was plain that the pistol of the starter had a dud in it and that caused Riley to make his false move.

"Did America's hope in the 400 meter hurdle race complain? Not a bit. He went back a yard, got his start when the pistol did go off and raced to the tape with Snyder, of Ohio State, who won the race.

"The margin of less than a foot separated Riley from the Ohioan shows that had the athletes started on even terms Riley would have been the victor. When the Kansan trotted back to get his sweater he was given a round of applause by the fans who saw his sportsmanlike conduct. Riley could have protested, but he figured that it was the better part of valor to try to win despite the handicap that was given him."

English Colt Wins From French Idol

PARIS, May 19.—Sir Galahad III, J. D. Cohn's crack English colt, defeated Pierre Wertheimer's Epinard today in a match race before nearly 100,000 spectators at the St. Cloud race course.

The French horse was a hot favorite, but Cohn had a 20,000 franc side bet with Wertheimer. Epinard is conceding the English horse, which won the Lincolnshire, ten pounds for the 1,300 meters race.

He was very green and entirely ignorant of the mysterious details of fashionable feminine attire, but by hook or by crook managed to get a place beside a lady columnist who, taking pity on his raw innocence, helped him out with a few pointers on who was who and what was what. One of her tips was:

Next morning a shocked glance over the society page she burst into a roar of laughter. This is what it said: "Mrs. Bering Black looked very charming and had a tasteful arrangement of lace and soft effects, cunningly concealed [illegible] pork chops which [illegible] Boston Transcript.

SOLONS GET AWAY TO AN EARLY LEAD

Ping Bodie's Homer With Two Out in Ninth Holds the Home-Going Crowd a Little Longer—Lincoln Lucky.

A lead of seven runs piled up in the first two innings off John Brown and Letty Williams enabled Lincoln to make it three games straight from the Des Moines Boosters Sunday. The score was 8 to 7. Clise Dudley, on the mound for the Solons, was nicked rather freely but he managed to worry out of most of the holes. "Ping" Bodie stopped a rush toward the gates in the ninth when with two out and Burke on base Dudley made the mistake of putting one down the middle and the chunky Booster gardner drove it over the centerfield fence. Wheat filled to Kinsella to close the game and the crowd continued on its homeward journey.

It was not all Brown's fault that the Solons put over five runs while he was pitching. Even the most partisan fan admitted that the Solons got plenty of "breaks" in that inning. Moore walked to start it. Snyder shunted him along with a sacrifice and Moore scored on Kinsella's grounder which took a bad hop on Chavez and went for a single. Lembke got his spike caught in the bag trying to catch McDaniel's high fly and dropped the ball. McDonald shot a double to left and Kinsella raced home.

Caffey Cleans The Bases.

Ira Caffey cleaned the sacks with a triple to right. It was Caffey's first appearance with the Lincoln club. Not a bad way of introducing oneself! Hamilton's single thru the box scored Caffey. That spelled Brown's doom. Lefty Wilson, evidently a horse for work as he has appeared sometime during every game of the present series, then took over the responsibility. Conkey hit into a double play and the inning was over.

Dudley struck out to start the second inning but Moore singled thru short and scored on Snyder's double. Snyder came home on McDaniels' single to center. McDonald got credit for a double when Bodie lost his fly in the sun. Caffey popped out however and that inning ended.

Things went along until the fourth when Burke singled, and Bodie drew life on McDonald's wide throw. Wheat singled to right, Burke going to third. Dudley passed Chavez and spoiled any chance he might have had for a shutout. Burke being forced across with Des Moines' first run.

The Boosters enjoyed their biggest inning in the sixth when they batted all around and succeeded in getting in four runs. Bodie, first up, drew a pass. Dudley issued four walks altogether and Ping got three of them. Wheat singled thru second, Bodie going to third. Lembke singled to left and Bodie scored. Chavez flied to Kinsella and Lindberg struck out. It appeared that Dudley was going to pull out without a great deal of damage. But successive singles by Knaupp, Corriden and McLarry netted three more tallies.

Dudley Starts a Rally.

That four-run rally piqued Dudley. As first man up in the home half of the same inning he singled thru second and Moore sent him up a peg with a sacrifice. Snyder was intentionally passed. Kinsella popped out but Daniels scored Dudley with a sharp single to center. And that run was all that saved it from going into extra innings. Score:

A rumor that Scotty McDonald, veteran third sacker, had asked to be traded and that his request would be complied with, lacked verification at Manager Wakefield's office Monday morning. "It's all news to me," Bill Lelivelt, secretary of the club, stated. In case McDonald is traded there is Patterson, a recent arrival, to fall back on. Patterson was with Denver two years ago, but injured himself during the winter and was out of the game last season. He carries the reputation of being a whale of a fielder.

Des Moines is here Monday for the last game of the series. Then comes Omaha for a four-day stay starting Tuesday.

Sunday's game was somewhat slow but four double plays helped spice the proceedings.

Snyder, subbing for Gunther at second, handled five chances and made six putouts. He also figured in three double plays. Not bad for a player on foreign territory.

Despite baseball superstition that it is folly to scramble a batting order that has won the preceding game, Manager Wakefield took the bit in teeth, put Caffey, the new outfielder, into the game, and made several other changes.

Both Henry and Gunther, now on the injured list, will be back at work in a day or two. Henry has a "charleyhorse" and Gunther was spiked Saturday.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, May 19.—Wheat closed lower while other grains showed small gains on the Chicago board of trade today. Buying power failed in wheat after a mid-day bulge and prices suffered moderate setbacks. European demand created a firm undertone in deferred corn while the cash month sagged under profit taking.

Oats fluctuated within a narrow range and was higher at the finish with some inquiry.

Provisions continued dull and lower to the finish.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Grains started easier, moving within a narrow range on the Chicago board of trade today.

Showers, followed by cooler weather over the domestic belt, kept alive appreciation over crop prospects and brought buying on a small scale in wheat.

Corn was unchanged to slightly higher with wheat. Rains over the week end will delay planting but rapid progress was made last week and little field work remains to be done.

Oats followed other grains without any feature.

Provisions started steady.

Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, May 19.—A readjustment of wheat values continues the world over, with a higher trend evident. More action would be witnessed in the market were they not hampered by fears of legislative action.

The visible supply of corn is larger than last year and the trade is looking forward to an increased movement from the country.

Supplies of oats are decreasing and the market is gaining friends on the theory that oats will be scarce and in urgent demand before another crop is available. Interests who took cash oats on May delivery have moved out more than 1,500,000 to eastern market, where they are being sold at relatively low prices.—Lamson.

Grain Reports.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Hungerford advises Logan & Bryan as follows.

Consider weather over the corn belt states east of Missouri river unfavorable for planting or germination of corn already in the ground.

Lecounts report Garnett, Kas. "Thru this territory wheat is generally poor and thin, result of winter killing. Oats looking fine, some early corn coming up and looking good. Old corn very scarce."—Lamson.

Foreign Crops.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Russell's New Bureau says From various sources foreign crop news is of more or less unsatisfactory nature. Conditions abroad are just the reverse of what they were at this time a year ago, when most favorable reports on the crops were coming from the other side. As the world's wheat takings this year are at record proportions, indications point to another year of big demand as there are no stocks anywhere abroad.—Lamson.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO May 19.—Europe has been absorbing remaining wheat supplies in Canada with such rapidity the last month that local traders expect Winnipeg to sell at premium over Chicago before long. Canada has sold her wheat because of relatively low prices, as compared with those existing in the United States. The early forecast indicates unsettled, showers and cooler.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The McNary-Haugen bill will be called up in the house tomorrow. Many of its friends are optimistic as to its passage and are convinced that it will pass the senate. They also predict that if this bill reaches the president he will not veto it, notwithstanding the open secret that he would prefer some other form of agricultural aid.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Weimand: "Indications are for a two-sided market again today, but believe wheat getting gradually in a better position and that it will work irregularly higher. Favor the long side on recessions." "Corn needs better shipping call to make rallies hold."—Lamson.

News Summary.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Generally expected in Wall street that there will be little speculative activity in stocks until bonus bill is finally disposed of. Rather heavy selling predicted by professionals if president's veto is not sustained by senate.

Operations in long-haul indicated further increase in outstanding short account.

Much of buying of corn products said to have been by interests close to management.—Lamson.

Stock Market Opinions.

Barron: The short interest in American sugar and coppers is understood to be large. American sugar: Business passing on a waiting basis due to the tariff situation.

Bache & Co.: We do not believe that the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill will be followed by a period of stagnation in the stock market. We look for a continuation of the present irregular trend with the possibility of some recessions. We look for the passage of the bill and believe that the market will then go higher.

L. F. Rothschild & Co.: We look for a continuation of the present irregular trend with the possibility of some recessions. We look for the passage of the bill and believe that the market will then go higher.

Hornblower & Weeks: The rails are favored for the time being.—Lamson

A Triangular Conflict.

Springfield Republican: A decade ago, when an uneasy world was shaken by periodical war scares, it was not uncommon to trace its troubles to a two-fold antagonism between capital and labor on the one hand and on the other between rival nations and groups of nations. So serious in some countries were bread riots, anarchistic demonstrations and other symptoms of discontent that it was sometimes predicted that sooner or later harassed rulers might start a war in order to eliminate subversive forces by compelling all groups within the nation patriotically to range themselves in support of the government.

If this formula was too simple it yet obviously contained not a little truth, and it is interesting to see that the Russian secretary for foreign affairs, George Tchitcherin, revives it in an amended form in recent articles in Izvestia, which give an official explanation of the diplomacy of his government. The antagonisms which divide the world he now puts in three categories: (a) Labor versus capital, (b) rivalries between world powers, (c) competition between mother countries and colonies.

By colonies he means not merely or mainly new growths on virgin soil, but exploited territories regardless of the tenure on which they are held Thus a mandated territory would be regarded as a colony even tho only held in trust, and so would a weak country forced to grant concessions to a powerful neighbor even tho a nominal independence were retained. This definition is essential to his thesis that the "war after the war" has turned largely on the effort of the victorious powers to reduce Russia and Germany to the status of colonies The resulting struggle between exploiting and exploited nations further complicates the two-fold struggle between rival nationalities and between economic groups within the nation.

It is from this point of view that Tchitcherin writes the history of Russian diplomacy since the revolution of 1917. The revolution left Russia at the mercy of Germany, where two opposite policies as to peace. Ludendorff was for overthrowing the soviets by open the Russian leaders sought to convince Germany that to reduce all Russia to the chaotic condition of the Ukraine would be economically disastrous. "These arguments were sufficiently convincing to induce that country to adopt a policy of peaceful pentration"

During this phase the allies strongly condemned the violent methods for which Ludendorff stodo, and cultivated the democratic elements in Russia. After the peace of Brest Litovsk England pursued a policy of peaceful penetration which continued until the rising of the Czech legions in Russia which precipitated a joint effort by the allies to crush the soviets by military force.

Further to complicate the case the opposed tendencies which had appeared in Germany developed among the allies. In Tchitcherin's view the policy of Winston Churchill and Clemenceau was identical with that of Ludendorff, while the pacific penetration urged by Stresemann and his group reappeared in the attitude of Lloyd George: "Fundamentally there was nothing th choose between the "policy of Germany and of the allies" In fairness Tchitcherin might well have referred at this point to the doctrines early enunciated by President Wilson and adopted by the Harding administration, that the possessions of Russia should be regarded by the allied and associated powers as a sacred trust for the Russian people. At some points Tchitcherin's cynical interpretation of current history may have only too must justification, but the policy of the United States cannot be fitted into it. Whether or not it was the wisest policy that could be devised, it was not based on the pursuit of selfish advantages.

That commercial rivalries had a great part in European diplomacy relating to Russia nobody denies. The resolution adopted by the French and British at Cannes was "a restatement of the very policy that German industrialists had previously proposed to pursue in Russia." On the other hand the treaty of Rapallo, signed by Russia and Germany under the very noses of the allies at Genoa, was "the fruit of a long and complicated struggle on our part to bring about independent and separate economic co-operation between Russia and Germany." It can be said for this interpretation that it helps to explain why the Rapallo treaty was almost as heavy a blow to Lloyd George as to the French, whose diplomacy had been based on keeping Germany and Russia apart.

While Tchitcherin's interpretation of history is as interesting as it is one-sided, his exposton is perhaps of most importance for the light it may throw on present Russian policy, a matter which can no longer be ignored now that Russia is reappearing on the political map of Europe. The three fold division of the controversies of the day is significant because it is officially adopted by the Russian government which makes the chief aim of its diplomacy the protection of Russia against efforts to reduce it to the status of a colony. As Tchitcherin puts it, "Bargain, but no bondage," is her slogan. In watching future developments it will be necessary to keep in mind a view which, whether right or wrong is the Russian view and a determining factor in Rusrian diplomacy.

Exploiting Popular Indignation.

New Republic There is a general disposition among progressives to consider the oil and the Daugherty scandals as a bountiful subsidy from heaven for the prosperity of their cause They expect it to discredit the republican party and the Harding-Coolidge administration, and to discredit also, to a smaller extent, the democratic party and the existing economic system. They expect it to produce a political revolt which will enable the progressives to hold the balance of power in the coming presidential cam-

A Doubtful Victory.

New Republic: In the second phase of the "battle of the franc" the French government is victorious. Having been beaten almost to the point of panic and collapse by a bear movement that drove the franc to 3 42 cents, the French government took the offensive and brought the price up to maximum of 4.76 and within a single week. This looks, superficially like a conclusive victory.

In any battle, however, victory may ben won at any point in the line provided sufficient reserves are thrown in the contest. The question in each case is whether it is safe to use up reserves in an operation of limited extension. Everybody has known for a long time that France holds large reserves of gold and silver. The gold reserve alone exceeds a billion dollars and the silver, even at its commodity value, would bring the total reserve assets above $1,200,000,000. All this reserve is inactive Its relation to the value of the currency is purely psychological It might by hypothecated or alienated without any direct effect upon the currency. Why, then, did the government wait until the condition of the franc was very near desperation before hypothecating even a small part of the reserve? Plainly the operation was one involving risks.

It pleases the French government to pretend that it believes that the franc was forced down by the machinations of a ring of exchange speculators, chiefly German or in sympathy with the Germans. No doubt there were rings of speculators at work, and very likely much pro-German money went into their operations. But the value of the franc is determined ultimately on the domestic market, not on the exchanges abroad. Any purely artifical depression of the franc would have brought swift punishment to the operators.

The franc went down because the French public had begun to see that the financial position of the country was far from sound. The foreign value of the franc has been forced up by a measure which does not fundamentally strengthen the financial position. The relation between the reserves and expenditures is the same as it was when the franc was plunging downward. The financial measures which Poincare has pressed thru the senate were not regarded a week ago as sufficent to protect the currency. The prospects of an improved reparations settlement as a result of the expert commission's work are not perceptibly brighter. It is therefore by no means certain that the holders of franc will repose much faith in their keeping to the present level. And without this faith the flight from the franc is likely to get under way again.

MEN AND THINGS

One of the compensations of editorial writing is that men and women abler than one's self often stop to gaze in awe upon one and audibly express their wonderment that we can find so much and so many different things to write about. It is really no great mystery. The world is full of ideas, and the trick is to deftly trap a few of them every day or two, put them in an incubator and then be hopeful of results. No man who has reached middle age but has evolved some philosophy of life or at least some explanation of what has been going on about him. He may never have made these ideas articulate or even formulated them in his own mind. If someone else can express them for him a distinct service has been done.

The death of Duse, the great Italian actress, has revived the story of her infatuation for D'Annunzio, who has been lauded for so many years by the cheer leaders as one of the world's greatest poets. As a matter of fact he was a crazy man who was able to outfrenzy most of the poets and, therefore, was considered a great one. One does not need to read much of the story of Duse and the poet to possess a profound disgust for the man. She made him known and wealthy, and he abused her. He had the most depraved notions about women, one of them being that there should be no virgins over sixteen. That is enough to fit his status in the world of intelligence.

We have been asked as to what truth there is in the claim that the price of gravel has been reduced by administrative effort in the past few years. We put the question up to an engineer who has had every facility for ascertaining the facts. What he told us we pass on to you. He said that gravel was selling at a dollar before the state administration of three years ago purchased the large deposits near Ashland. Following that threat of potential state competition—the pit has not been opened by the state—the price fell to 80 cents. It is now 70 cents, and the engineer says this has been largely due to a cut made by men who have opened new pits within the year.

We suppose it is all because our education along that line is neglected, but we find it impossible to get up any excitement or interest over caricatures. The metropolitan papers print a number of these in each Sunday issue. The artist takes a few of the striking features of the victim, his bulging brow or his bristling moustache or his outstanding nose, and proceeds to make the brow bulge some more, the moustache to bristle more wildly or the nose to become still more outstanding. Then we are supposed to chuckle and laugh, and slap the back of the person nearest us. We have not seen one of these that has got within tickling distance of our risibilities. A caricature is essentially unfriendly, and the only interest it excites is as to how long the so-called artist goes without a walloping.

Disquieting stories come out of the east of factories working part-time or closed, a general lessening of the output and a pulling in of the industrial horns. They are disquieting only in the sense that they show confidence in the future of business is slackening. It may mean that the deflation that agriculture has had to pass thru is about to descend on manufacturing. The big fellows back east opposed combination and organization against the natural downward trend of prices and they have been aided by labor's vigorous refusal to give any of the ground it secured. The result has been to hold prices about 70 per cent above pre-war figures on manufactures, while the farmer gets about 30 per cent. With the farmers representing half the buying power of the country numerically, such a condition was impossible of continuance.

The scorn that we hear expressed now and then against idealism is usually directed against the man of one idea who is prone to make something of a nuisance of himself by his fanatical zeal to get it accepted. The world will not, we believe, ever lose its respect for ideals or for men who use them as the controlling factors in the plans of their lives. Whatever of revolt exists against traditional ideals as based upon a conception or conviction that they have not proved their worth or that they do not fit changed conditions. Before any of these are definitely abandoned generally most persons will insist upon proof of the worth of the new ones. They will not consent to going ahead without marks at which to aim.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

5 Minutes to Answer This.

My friend, the squire, never fails to take advantage of an opportunity to exhibit his talent for quick figuring. On a Main street car the other day he paid his fare with a dollar bill and the conductor having only five coins, which totaled 94 cents, was in a quandary. "Never mind," said the squire, as he pocketed 93 cents, "there's another cent so you can buy a good two-cent smoke." What five coins made up that 94 cents?
